COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

THURSDAY EVENING, Nov. 25, 1880.

REUTER'S quotation for Consols in London yesterday was again 100⅛, but French Rentes are ⅛ higher at 119¼, and Enfaced Rupee Paper also ⅛ higher at 80⅛ for Fours and 87⅞ for Fours-and-a-half.

East India bonds, it is notified, will be paid off on 30th November.

Coffee is reported flat and Mid.-Plantation Ceylon has again declined 1s. per cwt., the quotation now being 80s. Cocoanut-oil is unchanged. Seeds are unaltered. Wheat is quieter with a partial decline of 6d. to 9d. per quarter, to arrive. Metals are all as last quoted.

The Manchester Piece-goods market is reported firm, and private telegrams say that manufacturers are well engaged for the next two months.

In Liverpool yesterday, Cotton closed in favour of buyers, the day's sales being 10,000 bales, of which 1,500 were Surats. Spot prices show no change, but Futures were 1-16d. lower for this month and 1-32d. lower for March-April delivery. In New York, however, a marked advanced has again taken place, ready Mid.-Uplands having advanced from 11⅞ to 11½ cents, and February shipment from 11·74 to 12·18 cents per lb. The day's light receipts at the ports is evidently again the strengthening influence, and if the figures continue to fall off sufficient to warrant a belief in the crop not exceeding last year there is no doubt room for a further material advance. It is too soon yet, however, to come to such a conclusion ; the only thing to go upon so far being a few small days coming against the largest week of last season. The comparison of the receipts to date is as follows :—

	1880.	1879.	1878.
Wednesday's Receipts	27,000	33,000	31,000
Five days' do.	130,000	156,000	128,000
Total since 1st Sept.	2,236,000	2,039,000	1,666,000

At the weekly biddings for Council drafts on India in London yesterday, of the 30 lakhs offered, Rs. 28,30,000 were allotted to Calcutta, Rs. 1,20,000 to Madras, and Rs. 50,000 to Bombay, at an average of 1s. 7¾d., tenders at that rate receiving 5½ per cent. of the amounts applied for. This is a fraction worse than last week's biddings, but, nevertheless, fully as high as was generally anticipated here yesterday. On the strength of it, in fact, EXCHANGE here to-day would probably have undergone a marked improvement, but for the announcement that Government had advertised thirty-five lakhs for next week. This has been taken as an indication that the whole amount of the budget estimate may ultimately be put on the market, and as this would be equivalent to something like fifty lakhs for the remainder of the financial year, there is unquestionably good ground for sellers hesitating to operate in advance. To-day we opened with a partial advance of 1-32d. per rupee, but the improvement has only been maintained in forward paper, and we close for ready bills no better than last night's figures. Exports are, no doubt, increasing in volume every day, and had Government held their hands for a time we should probably have seen a decided upward movement. As it is the general view is that increased Council drawings will swamp the market, and that whatever the extent of our exports may be rates are not likely to advance. Closing quotations for ready bills are :—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 7d.	per rupee.
Do. telegraphic	1s. 7 19-32d.	,,
Do. 3 months' sight.	1s. 7 23-32d.	,,
Credits, 3 ,, ...	1s. 7¾d.	,,
Documents, 3 ,, ...	1s. 7⅞ to 29-32d.	,,
Francs, 3 ,, ...	2f. 10½c.	,,

On Calcutta we quote demand drafts at 1-16 per cent. discount to par, and sixty days' sight remain as before, quite nominal.

GOVERNMENT PAPER has shown much more firmness to-day, and there has been an evident disposition to buy at an advance of ¼. We now quote :—Fours, Rs. 98½ ; Fours-and-a-half, Rs. 107½.

The SHARE MARKET on the whole has been quiet with no great amount of business doing. In Bank shares no quotable alteration has taken place, and Land Companies are unchanged. In Press shares, Albert of Kurrachee and Mofussil Company are Rs. 10 higher. Spinning and Weaving mills on the whole are inclined downwards, and our prices give a fall of Rs. 5 in Oriental, Rs. 10 in Hindustan and Great Eastern, and Rs. 15 in Bombay United, Coorla, and Manockjee Petit. Empress are Rs. 5 higher.

COTTON.—The market opened with a very unsettled feeling, and for a time it was difficult to say what prices really were ; but sellers showing great firmness, owing to the character of the American advices, an advance of Rs. 3 to Rs. 4 per candy was eventually established. On this level a considerable business has been done during the day, mainly in New Crop for future delivery, and we close with a firm feeling in expectation of stronger advices from Liverpool in the morning. Quotations are :—

Good Hingunghat, Dec. dely.	Rs. 240	per candy.
,, Omra, March ,, ...	,, 223	,,
,, Broach, ,, ,, ...	,, 240	,,

SEEDS and WHEAT are firm at practically unchanged values.

FREIGHTS continue fairly steady with no appreciable change in rates. For Liverpool we still quote late December loading at 36s. 3d. and for Trieste and Venice 40s. to 48s. 6d. per ton, payable here.

PIECE-GOODS are very firm, the day's sales in the bazaar being put at about 50 packages. From first hands there is not much doing, the range of prices in Manchester being above our level.

COALS are practically unchanged. To arrive sellers are not disposed to operate at buyers' rates, say Rs. 16¾ alongside for Davison's and Cardiff.

For the convenience of those who are unable to visit us, we have published a copy-righted system of TEST TYPES for self-fitting, which we will forward FREE on application.

Messrs. C. MARCKS & COMPANY,
OF
BOMBAY and POONA,

HAVE the pleasure of announcing that Mr. A. MENIST, Oculist's Optician, of Amsterdam and London, has appointed them AGENTS for the sale of his celebrated PEBBLE SPECTACLES and EYE-GLASSES, BINOCULARS, &c.

Mr. MENIST makes his Frames of Gold and Silver only, which have been found to be the best metals for the purpose, his object being to obtain perfection as nearly as possible, without regard to cost. He does not use steel, for this metal rusts, and the joints become loose, altering the focus of the glasses, and so injuring the eyes ; neither is there any economy in it, for in this climate it corrodes so quickly that it must be often renewed, while Gold or Silver are practically everlasting, and Aluminium cannot be used, for it leaves an idelible mark on the skin wherever it comes in contact with it.

Mr. MENIST'S NON-PRESSURE EYE-GLASSES have a spring so made that it may be twisted in any direction without breaking, and they maintain their position when worn without any pressure or leaving any mark when removed.

His 12-lens "DUCHESSE" are all Achromatic and as powerful as Field Glasses.

His FIELD, MARINE, and OPERA GLASSES may be used for hours without causing the eyes to ache.

Mr. MENIST has left instruments with Messrs. C. MARCKS and Co. which enable them to test each eye separately, for it frequently happens that they differ more or less in power.

MESSRS. C. MARCKS and Co., for the convenience of clients who may not wish to purchase Mr. MENIST'S GLASSES, have also in stock some of their own manufacture, at lower prices, in Gold, Silver, and Steel frames, and though the quality of the pebbles is admittedly not equal to those of Mr. Menist, yet it is very good, and much superior to most of what is sold as the "finest Brazilian Pebbles."

Pamphlets may be had on application.

The Bombay Gazette

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1880.

WE hear from a roving correspondent, who occasionally sends us notes, that the crops in the Southern Mahratta country are looking very well ; in fact, this year's harvest promises to be the best we have had for many years. The jowari, the staple grain of the country, is generally particularly good, though here and there, especially on the high lands, the heads are small for want of a sufficient rainfall. Next to the jowari the most important crop is cotton, upon which the ryot chiefly depends for means to pay the Government assessment. It is said that a smaller acreage has been sown with New Orleans cotton this year than has been the case for some time ; but our correspondent, from his personal observation, is inclined to doubt the correctness of this statement. In the south of the Dharwar collectorate by far the larger portion of cotton sown is New Orleans, and the ryots are unanimous in saying that the profit derived from New Orleans is far greater than the return from the indigenous variety, and that they only grow sufficient of the latter for their village consumption. This being the case, it is evident that there is no fear of the cultivation of American cotton being given up. In the northern talookas, however, the foreign plant does not appear to thrive, and the cultivation of it is going out. This is as it should be. The cultivation of an exotic in preference to an indigenous variety is only desirable if it is more profitable to the ryot, and Santappa bin Singappa may be trusted to find out for himself which is the most profitable. All he has a right to expect is, that he may be supplied with the means of keeping in order at a moderate cost the expensive and complicated gins necessary for cleaning the foreign cotton, which he has been induced to buy by Government. He may also reasonably expect to be helped to obtain from time to time fresh seed, although the supply of fresh seed required to keep up the quality is smaller than most people would imagine. The newly-imported seed, also, does not produce good results. The seed requires to be reproduced in this country—to be acclimatised in fact—before the yield can be depended upon. We regret to hear that the most objectionable system of levying a practically compulsory cess upon every gin has not been discontinued. We commented on this system a little time ago, and, according to our correspondent's description, the system is still in force. An annual fee of Rs. 12 is levied by the cotton inspector upon every gin in the district. The fees are nominally subscribed by the ryots voluntarily, and in return for the subscription the ryot is supposed to be entitled to repairs in the Government factories to that amount. It is evident, however, that the fees are not all applied to this purpose, for bungalows have been built for the use of the Cotton Department in many places in the district, and a balance of about Rs. 30,000 remains in hand, so it is quite evident that the produce of the tax has not been applied to the purpose for which it is ostensibly levied. If the ryots were allowed to subscribe or not as they liked, there would not be so much harm in this misapplication of funds. They might be allowed to settle their own affairs with the department ; but this is not the case. The most cruel stories are told all over the district of the way the mamlutdars wring the arrears of subscription out of the ryot. Executions have been put in, and the pots and pans of a man who is unwilling to pay have been sold up, just as if the subscription were a lawful tax which the tax-payer declined to pay. And this is done to provide a fund which has evidently not been exclusively applied for the purposes for which it was levied. This tax or subscription, or whatever it may be, should either be stopped, or at least be placed on a just footing, before the ryots are driven into the law courts to find a remedy. While the "Dharwar saw-ginned" cotton has been falling off steadily in favour for the last few years, the indigenous variety, known as "Coompta," has been rising in the market. The staple of this cotton is said to be the strongest of any in the market, and to be in no way inferior to the best Broach. It is, however, sent to market in a very different condition to Broach cotton, being full of leaf and dirt of all kinds. This is very much the fault of the chief consumers of this cotton, the Bombay spinning-mills and their agents, who are said to be very indifferent to the quality of the cotton they obtain, provided it be invoiced at the quoted price, and accompanied by a five per cent. commission. The trade, in fact, is in the hands of natives, and the cotton has got such a bad name that, good as the staple undoubtedly is, European firms won't look at it. We believe that both of the European firms located at Hubli and Gudak have tried the experiment of sending this cotton to market in thoroughly clean condition ; but they found that the cotton had so bad a name that no one would give the extra price necessary to pay the expenses of cleaning the cotton. If consumers, or their "life agents," are willing to buy a mixture of cotton and dirt as cotton, they will have little difficulty in obtaining a supply of the mixture and a commission. The matter may be worth the attention of the shareholders of some of the mills. Coompta cotton suffers much from its journey of 150 miles on country-carts to the coast ; the trade being almost entirely in the hands of natives, the purchasers will not permit the cotton to be pressed up-country, and it consequently suffers a good deal in transit. When the Dharwar cotton plain is opened out by a railway a great improvement will be seen in the quantity and quality of both varieties of cotton grown there. This has invariably been the case in other districts. Had it not been for the convention recently concluded with the Goa Government, from which probably nothing will come after all, the Carwar line would have been approaching completion by this. At present the Government are carrying on the survey of a projected line from Sholapore to Gudak viâ Beejapore. This route is looked upon more favourably by some traders in Bombay than the Carwar line, as bringing the produce direct to Bombay ; but there can be no doubt that the natural outlet for the trade of the Southern Mahratta country is by the shortest route to the coast in preference to a long overland route, the greater portion of which lies through a country which can furnish little freight. By whichever route the cotton may go, its immediate destination must be Bombay, for the produce of the Southern Mahratta country is not in itself sufficient to ensure immediate freight to steamers bound directly to Europe. Ocean-going steamers will not go down the coast upon the chance of picking up a few hundred bales. The route, therefore, which will bring the cotton to the godowns of the Bombay merchants at least cost will undoubtedly be most beneficial to them, and the Carwar line is the shortest and least expensive route. Whichever line be ultimately adopted, it will be a great advantage to the country. No other district in the presidency requires to be opened out more, whether for purposes of trade or prevention of famine, and no other district promises to yield a better return on the expenses incurred in opening it out.

WE have good grounds for believing that a full report of a certain native official's misdemeanours at Kabul during the occupation a year ago was submitted to the Foreign Office by Mr. Lepel Griffin, with a recommendation that the offender should be brought before the bar of a public tribunal, couched in most emphatic and unqualified terms. Mr. Griffin, in his report, plainly says that Sir Frederick Roberts trusted a corrupt subordinate, and that executions were compassed by this official, who, in most cases, suborned evidence, and then himself pressed the case against the unfortunate accused. Sardars, who were suspected of possessing wealth, are said to have been threatened with the gallows, and on pain of execution made to disgorge large sums of money, horses, and jewellery. No man of substance escaped his rapacity. He is believed to have extorted altogether a fabulous sum from his victims. From the Mustaufi Habibullah alone he is accused of having extorted Rs. 20,000 ; and the Mustaufi publicly complained of the exaction. But by far the gravest charge against him is that he concocted the mass of evidence against Yakub Khan. We believe that in regard to the ex-Amir, Mr. Griffin has been specially diligent in endeavouring to arrive at the truth ; and the result of his enquiries places it beyond doubt that Yakub Khan, though culpably weak and neglectful, was guiltless of active complicity in the murder of Sir Louis Cavagnari. Now if the facts establishing the wickedness of the underling referred to are capable of proof—nay, have been proved—why is the strong recommendation of Mr. Lepel Griffin, that he should be prosecuted and punished, quietly shelved ? A scoundrel of this sort ought to receive no mercy. If it be supposed—very mistakenly—that it would be impolitic to make a fuss in the matter, the culprit should be, at the very least, summarily turned out of the Government service. We ask, then, first, is it or is it not true that Mr. Lepel Griffin, before going home on leave, forwarded to Government a despatch setting forth specific instances of this man's systematic villainy, and recommending that he should be dealt with by process of law ; secondly, if this is so, why the recommendation in question has been ignored ; and thirdly, whether the individual referred to is not still in Government employment ?

STEAMER REPORT.

GALLE, Nov. 23, 6.45 A.M.

Massageries' Australie, from Aden, arrived.

THE weather in Bombay has been much perturbed during the last couple of days, the sky being overcast and threatening, while the thermometer has jumped up four or five degrees. This is said by the weather-wise to be owing to the effect of the cyclone which took its rise recently in the Bay of Bengal passing over Bombay. The cyclone has passed out into the Indian Ocean, somewhere to the south, and will doubtless be heard of from ships coming up the coast. Rain fell pretty heavily at Poona on Wednesday, and again on Thursday morning.

THE SS. Cathay, with the next outward mail, is not likely to be in before Wednesday morning. Owing to the prevalence of dengue-fever in Egypt the Post-Master General arranged to send the mails per the Thibet to Port Said instead of landing them at Alexandria, and the Cathay was delayed at Port Said to receive on board mails and passengers there instead of at Suez.

WE understand it has been decided that only uniform and fancy dress will be allowed at the Volunteer Ball to be held on the 7th December.

THE volunteers have been called on to attend three parades in honour of His Excellency the Viceroy and we are sure there will be a good muster on each occasion remembering that Lord Ripon is known as one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the volunteer movement here or in England. The times of the several parades are Saturday morning, to assist in lining the streets on the occasion of His Excellency's arrival (for which the companies are asked to assemble at the Byculla Club), Saturday evening, to furnish a guard of honour at the Byculla Club, on the occasion of the ball attending the Club dinner (time to be fixed) and Monday afternoon, when a grand review of the troops in garrison will be held at Parel. On this last occasion the gallant 66th Regiment, just returned from Afghanistan, and now on its way to Bombay from Kurrachee, will be present to drill on the same parade with whom they ought to be sufficient inducement in itself to induce every volunteer in the corps to turn out.

THE 66th Regiment is expected from Kurrachee by the B. I. S. N. Co.'s steamer Khandalla, which sailed yesterday (the 25th instant), to arrive here on the 28th instant with 16 officers, 1 lady, 2 children, 1 apothecary; and also 420 men, 42 women, 81 children, and 65 followers. On arrival the regiment will be landed in the afternoon at the Sassoon Dock, and quartered in camp on the Esplanade until further orders.

A NOTICE appears in the Bombay Government Gazette to the effect that, it having been decided to take the forthcoming general census on the 17th February, 1881, the Right Honourable the Governor in Council is pleased to direct that all public offices be closed on the 16th, 17th, and 18th February, 1881, and heads of offices making arrangements for emergent public business, in order that the services of their employés may be available for census operations. It is to be distinctly understood that all the clerks are allowed to be absent from their offices are to be for those three days exclusively employed in aiding the census operations.

IT is said that the non-attendance at the Lahore Durbar of Muhammed Hyat Khan, C. S. I., late Political Officer with General Roberts, has given rise to some surprise and conjectures. He has now obtained a month's sick leave; but, the Pioneer hints mysteriously, his absence from the durbar was in no way connected with the state of his health.

The latest news from Gilgit is reassuring. The Hassin people who attacked the Gilgit Fort are said to be in retreat; and there need be no further immediate anxiety about Major Biddulph. The reinforcements under Colonel Tanner are pushing up from Srinuggur.

GILGIT FORT was visited in 1875 by a well-known traveller, Major Marsh, whose account has been published, thus possessing an advantage over any reports that may have been sent in by Major Biddulph, which are naturally regarded as confidential. The fort is the work of the Dogras since their occupation of Gilgit, and stands near the ruins of an older one. It is built of "beams of wood, stones, and clay in layers, the wooden frames helping to bind all firmly together." Lime is unknown in these parts. There are double walls; the inner court is used as a store room for provisions. The armament of the fort, when Major Marsh was there, consisted of one small 6-pounder brass gun, 6 sherbachas—1-pound wall piece swivels—and six large jazails, or 2-ounce matchlocks. The garrison at that time numbered 500 men, who were drilled, after a fashion, once a day, and were considered strong enough by the traveller to hold the fort in ordinary times. The river flows 100 feet below the walls; and from this river the garrison gets its water, a covered way running down. The troops are relieved every two years, and have rather a hard time of it at this remote outpost.

THE effect of the late rain in Rai Bareilly, the Pioneer says, has been very satisfactory, not only as regards the crops already sown, but in lessening the labour of flooding the fields for sowing, and in enabling the cultivators to plough and sow some lands that must otherwise have lain altogether neglected. A competent authority writes:—"If we get about as much more, and it is general, we should go up to nearly the full rabi area, and three-fourths probably of the threatened distress would disappear. For it comes just at the right time, when a really good effort was being made by people and owners, and Government itself, to get the rabi in. Sowings can go on well to about twelve days hence, and will be carried on, though exceptionally late, to the middle of December."

COLONEL J. BURN, a long time manager of the Durbungha Estates under the Court of Wards, has been appointed to command at Fyzabad, which, considering the gallant colonel has been more than twenty years in civil employ, is, the Pioneer naively suggests, high testimony to the value of his earlier services as a military officer.

THE S. S. Pleiades, of the Star Line, trading to Calcutta, had a curious experience on her last voyage. When passing through the Canal, and when within three miles of Suez, a tremendous hail-storm occurred. There had been no rain to speak of for three years, but it seemed as if compensation would be made in a very limited time by the hail-stones, some of which were an inch cube in size. The unusual sight was speedily presented of the sides of the Canal being channelled by the rush of water from the melting hail.

MAJOR BLOOD has been deputed to Madras, a local paper states, for the purpose of conferring with Colonel Sim in view to assimilate the equipment of the Sappers with that of Bengal and Bombay. Major Blood is at present the officiating Commandant of the Bengal Sappers and Miners and an officer of great experience. He has, from the experience he gained in the late Zulu and Afghan campaigns, in which he served, drawn up a work on pontoon bridge-making which has so commended itself to the Inspector-General of Ordnance in Bengal as to lead to Major Blood being sent to Madras for the purpose stated. Major Blood will come to Bombay after he has done with Madras to confer with Major Bedford, the officiating Commandant of the Bombay Sappers and Miners.

RACE-LOTTERIES have aroused the indignation of the Indian Mirror, which remarks that "while rigidly and inexorably enforcing repressive measures in the case of raffles and lotteries started by private parties, where the amounts risked are absolutely trifling, the executive authorities wilfully connive at the gaming for considerable and often ruinous stakes carried on at the public races. As if the Sonepore races were not conducted in positive mockery of the law against gambling, a greater and more agreeable variety is given to the amusements of the occasion by the introduction of lotteries. The official classes of Bengal, headed by Mr. C. T. Buckland, the junior member of the local Board of Revenue, mustered strongly at the races; but, of course, they cannot be expected to deprive themselves of the pleasures of an exciting sport from which the commonalty are rigidly excluded. We earnestly hope that the new Viceroy will direct enquiry into this affair, and take such order with the speculative members of the bureaucracy at Sonepore as shall prevent the recurrence of a state of things that is simply a scandal and a disgrace to the British administration."

ARRANGEMENTS are being made on the North-East frontier to prevent the Nagas from committing further depredations. The Government of Assam is still occupied with the defences of Kachar, and a new fort is to be erected on the range of hills forming the boundary between Silhet and Kachar. The fort, which is situated at a height of 1,300 feet, will be connected by roads with the nearest outpost in each district, an advantage which cannot fail to recommend itself. Amongst other precautions taken in view of further visits from our predatory neighbours, the Nagas, the Chief Commissioner has applied his approval of a proposal made by Mr. W. Daly, of forming a colony of Kukis to the east and north-east of the Balladhun Tea Estate, as a further check on their movements. When the garden just referred to was raided in January last the Nagas came by one road and returned by another. To prevent a like recurrence Mr. Daly, who has managed to collect together several small poongas and brought them under the immediate control of one of their Rajas, will divide his colony into two parts, and plant them in two stockaded villages directly in the paths lately used by the Nagas. And further, the Englishman states that a Kuki militia consisting of a hundred rank and file is being raised in North Kachar as an experiment, and we have no doubt that it will be found a success. If so, a large body of men should be at once collected, for the militia will be a source of strength, whilst, at the same time, costing but little to maintain.

THE committee of the Doveton Society are taken roundly to task by the Englishman for their apathy and mismanagement. It is a disgrace, says our contemporary, to the whole Eurasian community that a legally-constituted meeting of the Doveton, when matters of very grave import are at stake, cannot be had; and it is suggested as the cause of this that places of amusement are too attractive to be resisted by Eurasians. The affairs of the Doveton Society are in as doubtful a condition of solvency and common-sense management as they well may be. The time for saying smooth things about the Doveton is past. There is probably no body of men, no society in India, which, during the last three-and-a-half years at least, have had more public notice taken of their proceedings, more counsel proffered them by friendly and unfriendly critics, more opportunities of "setting their house in order," of recovering the lee-way of the past, than the Doveton Society. And, notwithstanding all that has been, we venture to say that few, if any, bodies of men, either in India or in the world, have exhibited such an outcome of incompetency to manage their own affairs as the Eurasian community has afforded in its dawdling with the splendid opportunity its members had of proving their capacity for those higher positions in the Government of India which their most sanguine friends and advocates maintain they should occupy. There is scarcely a village in Britain from which it would be difficult to produce a co-operative committee of workingmen who, in clear business methods and in attention to the affairs of which they have the direction, would not put to shame every Doveton committee that has for some years been chosen by Eurasians to administer the funds of the trust and manage its affairs. The financial condition of the Doveton, year by year eating up the legacy of Captain Doveton, without which it would have died of inanition long ago, is one of those bungles which crop up rarely in India, and still more rarely in England. The only thing that has saved the Doveton from annihilation is the, on the whole, high character of its teaching. In every other respect it has been a failure. The disgraceful condition of its class-rooms, almost destitute of furniture, and without a single peg to hang a pupil's hat, the beggarly array of its boarding-establisment, of which any charity-school or poor-house in England would be ashamed, and the treatment of its best European teachers is best known to the committees who have ruled the fortune of the Doveton and imperilled its existence.

THE day before Lord Ripon left Studley Royal for India an address of congratulation and good wishes was presented to him by the citizens of Ripon. It has since been elaborately illuminated and bound in morocco, and, Truth says, Lady Ripon is to take it out with her as a token to the Viceroy that he is not forgotten by his Yorkshire neighbours.

MR. ADAM, the new Governor of Madras, on the 3rd instant, received two deputations in Edinburgh. One of them brought under his notice the lack of energy in the carrying out of the provisions of the Education Despatch of 1854, and the disproportionate amount of money and attention devoted to higher education by those who had now practical control of education in India. Mr. Adam, in reply, said he was afraid it was too true that the behests of the despatch had not been so fully carried out by the different Governments of India as one could have hoped; but those members of the deputation who had been in India would know the enormous pressure of work on central Governments, and that matters like the one in question were sometimes neglected more than they should be. If it should be in his power while he held the Government of Madras to do anything to advance the education of the masses he should be glad to do so. "Our position in India," he added, "is a very peculiar one. We must take great care, however, attached as we are to our own religion, however anxious to see it carried out in all relations of life, that we do not assume the appearance even of proselytism and wishing to treat one religion as preferable by the State to another. Moreover, we must remember that even among the different bodies of India the governors of that country must hold the balance with absolute equity." Mr. Adam concluded by saying that he should not pledge himself in any way to any course of action until he had been in Madras for some time, and been able to make himself acquainted with the whole system of education there; and, therefore, while he expressed his hearty sympathy with the deputation, they must understand that he would make no promise, except that the matter would have his most careful consideration. Mr. Adam afterwards met a deputation of the Free Church Foreign Missions Committee, who pressed the claims of the Madras Christian College to greater assistance from Government. Mr. Adam promised to give the matter very careful attention when he arrived in India.

"FORGIVEN" AT THE GAIETY.

THE management spared no effort to make a hit with "Forgiven." The piece was well put upon the stage, the scenery appropriate, and the dresses good. The caste did not include Miss Wilson, whom we pronounced the other evening, on a first impression derived from the first appearance of the majority of the company, to be a long way in front of the other lady members of the troupe. And on Saturday evening's performance that was, no doubt the general opinion. But the other ladies apparently had not parts which suited them on that occasion; and it was made evident on Wednesday that there is more genuine talent amongst the ladies of the company than the experience of the opening night led us to believe. Mrs. Willoughby showed considerable dramatic power; Miss. Hutchinson also acted with much spirit and a keen appreciation of the part allotted to her; and Miss Blain improved on the favourable impression already created by her natural and graceful representation. The early part of the piece, the first two acts in fact, fell decidedly flat; and, though the latter part went extremely well the weariness experienced at the start left a tinge of dissatisfaction. The performance was too long in any case—it was not over till nearly half-past twelve; and the management would have shown a wise discretion if they had largely "cut" the first two acts.

"Foregiven" is a sentimental comedy, illustrating a story of a match between a fashionable artist and a village girl, an attempt, partially successful, of a lady in his own sphere of life to draw the husband from his allegiance, leading to misunderstanding and severance, and, finally, reconciliation. There is an amusing side issue relating to another love-story, ending in defeat of the machinations of a scheming and ambitious mother, and a runaway marriage. Paul Cudlip, gardener to Lord Dart, has a pretty young daughter, Rose, who at the opening of the piece, is already in love with Claude Redruth, a gentleman who has been a visitor at Lord Dart's. His lordship has a niece, Lady Maud, with whom Redruth has had love passages, but who has scorned the artist's suit, though really not impervious to his good looks and good qualities. There are also Lord Dart's son, Mr. Orleigh Dart, and his friend, Mr. Chatham Pole, a fussy M. P., who serve for purposes of padding, Mr. Dart also being intended by his father to marry Lady Maud, and by Mrs. Cremer, a neighbour and friend of the Dart's, to espouse her daughter Laura. The one other character of the piece remaining to be mentioned is Dick Fallow, an honest, sterling fellow at bottom, but who has been turned into a cynic by Mrs. Cremer breaking off an engagement between him and her daughter. Mrs. Willoughby, as Lady Maud, the haughty beauty, trying to crush the timid Rose by enticing her husband from his home, and later as the humbled, penitent woman shocked into propriety by the extent of the misery she had occasioned, carried the palm. During the terrace scene, both in her trying interview with Redruth and in her contemptuous treatment of Rose, when the poor, heart-broken, neglected wife comes to look for her husband, and in the utterance of the false accusation against the artist, and also in the closing scene where she seeks and obtains pardon from both wife and husband, her acting was very effective, evincing careful study and a just appreciation of the character she had to pourtray. Miss Blain, as the innocent country girl, and the confiding and, later, the offended wife, was simple and natural; her acting in the difficult scene where she hears her husband denounced as seeking the love of another woman, and in the equally difficult cottage scene, when Lord Dart brings the repentant Lady Maud to acknowledge the injury she had caused and to sue for forgiveness, was particularly good, and devoid of any approach to extravagance. Miss Hutchinson made a lively and pleasant Laura Cremer, and acted well the pert young lady afraid to openly brave her mother's anger by refusing to obey her commands, but secretly resolved to marry the man of her own choice, and not her mother's nominee. Mrs. Norville, too, was very good as the manœuvring mama, unscrupulous enough to deliberately plan the ruin of Rose and her husband's happiness, in order that by playing off Redruth's attentions to Lady Maud she might induce Mr. Orleigh Dart to become jealous and marry her daughter Laura out of pique. Of the gentlemen, Mr. Denbigh Newton, as the fairly good-principled and well meaning but extremely weak-willed hero, Claud Redruth, and Mr. Richard Cowell as the honest plain-spoken old gardener, of whom the successful artist became ashamed on his father-in-law, divided first honours. Mr. Burton, as Dick Fallow, did not seem quite at ease. His voice is naturally, perhaps, not well suited to the character, and he made it less so by commencing some sentences in too high a tone, which gave his acting the appearance of being stilted and forced. In the most difficult parts, however,—the discovery of his suit and the manner of its prosecution by his inamorata's irate mama, and the explanation following the secret marriage—he was fairly successful. Mr. Turner, in the character of "the funny man" of the piece, Mr. Chatham Pole, M. P., was a little extravagant—he burlesqued the part too much. Lord Dart was fairly represented by Mr. Crofton, but neither that nor Mr. Orleigh Dart (Mr. Norville) were strong characters.

The piece would have gone better than it did if there had been less noise amongst some portions of the audience. If gentlemen could contrive to regain their seats before the recommencement of the performance after the drop-scene has been down at the close of an act, and would endeavour to carry on their conversations in a little lower tone of voice, they would be doing a kind and gentlemanly service to the performers and those who go to the theatre to hear the play.

LAYING OF THE FOUNDATION-STONE OF MALABAR HILL CHURCH.

As was announced yesterday, the corner-stone of the new church on Malabar Hill was laid by Lady Fergusson last evening. The entire plot of ground appropriated by the church covers an area of about 305ft. × 200ft., and was surrounded for the occasion with gaily-dressed poles lavishly decorated with bunting. The enclosure was carpetted, and chairs provided within it for 150 people, but quite 50 of these were unoccupied. Lady Fergusson, accompanied by Mrs. Sheppard, arrived shortly before 5 o'clock; and among those present were His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the Hon'ble E. W. Ravenscroft, Sir Michael Westrop, Maj. Genl. Fuller, Maj. Genl. Hewett, Colonel White, R. E., Major Mant, R.E., Major Rivett-Carnac, Captain Haydon, R.E., Mr. Forbes, and Mr. Jefferson. The choir, followed by the clergy, came out in procession from the house of Mr. Bodger, which immediately adjoins the compound of the church, and walked up an extemporised pathway to the chancel, the clergy consisting of the following gentlemen occupying the vestry:—His Lordship the Bishop of Bombay, the Ven'ble Archdeacon F. L. Sharpin, Rev. T. F. Forbes, Rev. G. Rennell, Rev. C. H. F. Johnson, Rev. R. W. Evans, Rev. R. L. Page, Rev. J. Bowen, Rev. Janin Ali, and Rev. J. Diago. His Lordship the Bishop read the "Order for laying the corner-stone," which opened with the appropriate responses. Psalm cxxii followed, succeeded by prayers and a hymn after. His Lordship confirming the stone, Lady Fergusson, assisted by Khan Bahadoor Muncherjee Cowasjee Murzban, Executive Engineer, Presidency, laid the cement, after which the stone was lowered; and Her Ladyship, tapping it thrice with the mallet, declared that it was "well and truly laid," and "in the name of God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost." Another hymn and three special prayers brought the ceremony to a close.

His Lordship the Bishop, in the absence of H. E. the Governor, stated that something over three thousand rupees was still wanting to complement the required total of subscriptions, and that a layman had kindly volunteered to advance the money until the full amount was collected. With a view thereto those present were invited to contribute. The following are a few of the names which appear in the list of subscribers:—

	Rs.
H. E. the Governor of Bombay	500
Sir Richard Temple	100
Sir Michael Westrop	250
H. E. the Commander-in-Chief	50

The building of a small church on Malabar Hill has long been in contemplation, and now that Government have been pleased to give encouragement to the scheme by granting a site near the reservoir, and promising a grant-in-aid of Rs. 15,000, it is desirable that there should be as little delay as possible in carrying out the project. A church in the locality of Malabar Hill will be a great boon to the residents of that part of Bombay as well as to the adjoining districts of Breach Candy and Cumballa Hill, to which it becomes accessible by the new road. The new church is only intended, ordinarily, for a morning service, as it is not thought desirable to interfere with existing arrangements for the evening, which seem to answer well enough, the drive at that time of the day being rather pleasant than otherwise. The Malabar Hill church will not be regarded as a chapel-of-ease to the Cathedral and served by the clergy of that church with the consent of the Government, the foundations have already been put in, but the work will not be allowed to proceed further until the whole sum required is available and paid into the Government treasury.

MATRICULATION EXAMINATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—From the first question in the Euclid paper set at the late Matriculation Examination, which I quote below for reference, it appears that, whatever the examiners' other qualifications, accuracy of their study of Euclid is not one. I suspect that the gentlemen had, possibly, in their minds, when they drew up the question, the 4th, the 8th, and the 26th propositions of the first Book; but if they will be good enough to refer to their Euclid again, I hope they will find that it is only the 4th proposition that proves the equality of two triangles in every respect. The 8th proposition simply proves the equality of the angles contained by the two equal sides, and the two cases of the 26th the equality of the remaining two sides and the third angle in each triangle. It is true that the equality of triangles in every respect can be infered from the 8th and the 26th, but Euclid does not do it, and if we strictly adhere to him, it can only be done with the assistance of the 4th proposition. Thus you with see that there is only one case, and not four, as required by the examiners, in which Euclid proves that two triangles are equal in every respect.

The question referred to above is stated as follows:—"State the four cases in which Euclid proves that two triangles are equal in every respect."

II.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—An acquaintance of mine, a nice young fellow, went up last week for his matriculation examination, which, I believe, is still going on. Like myself, all his well-wishers have made sure that he will pass. I desire to bring to your notice that sufficient care is not taken by the examiners in going over the written answers of the candidates. I have been assured by a reverend gentleman that the written answers are not all examined by them; that they sometimes ask outsiders to examine them; that the marks awarded by the examiners for witten answers are never added together by them, but by the subordinate and temporary clerks engaged for this purpose in the office of the University; that the examiners are not therefore able to tell which of the candidates whose answers they have examined have passed; that they are entirely guided by a list of the marks prepared by the clerks; and that this list is not checked by the Registrar or his Deputy. It is a most serious matter to entrust this important business in the hands of the native clerks, who may, out of spite against any of the candidates, or against their friends or relatives, wilfully transpose or incorrectly add up their marks. I may tell you that there is an impression abroad that things are not what they should be as regards the totalling of the marks awarded. I am told that the examiners are paid handsomely for their work, and it is expected that they will indicate in some way—say by a letter of the alphabet—the answers of such of the candidates as have obtained a sufficient number of marks. This would act as a check on the clerks. I am aware that the heads of some of our local high schools, who are themselves examiners in the University, are entitled to know how their candidates have done in the various subjects; but there are others, who care for none of these things, who are too indifferent or too diffident to take any trouble about their pupils. And thus these poor fellows have to suffer because no one comes to take an interest in them. Unless one matriculates one is precluded from joining any of the colleges; one cannot even obtain a situation of Rs. 30 in a Government Office. And I may tell you that girls, like myself, have made up our minds on no account to entertain overtures of matrimony from any lad who has been unable to pass at least the Entrance examination of our University.

By publishing this letter, or calling attention to the subject of it, in your valuable paper, you will confer an inestimable favour upon the numerous candidates who have presented themselves for the above examination.

LIFE IN TASMANIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—In the Devon Herald of 9th September, to hand, I observe a letter copied from your issue of 24th July, "A year's Residence in Tasmania and Australia," bearing the signature of "Anglo-Indian." Having read this letter, I am sorry I have to bear testimony to the truthful statements of your correspondent, and commend them to the careful and serious consideration of intending emigrants to Tasmania, as well as to the gentlemen who have the misfortune to be saddled with properties in the Castra Settlement, which, at the present time, have very little commercial value—properties which cannot be let or sold, except at a considerable loss to the owners; and this, too, after being in their possession for nearly nine years, although at the time this land was taken up it was represented that the fact of its being alienated had increased its value to a considerable extent. Castra is still a wilderness, and converting it into anything else would beggar the whole Indian army, and the civil service to boot.

Your correspondent having described the difficulties to be encountered so accurately, I have only one objection to make to his letter, and that is he represents that the profit of 20-10-6 per acre may be made by growing wheat, and states that "this, with the straw, is the proprietor's profit." I have grown wheat, oats, peas, potatoes, &c., for the last five years, and up to the present time have not made 500 shillings by any of those crops, after paying for labour have on every occasion been a looser, and a heavy one too. To render this forest land sweet and fit for the reception of grass and clover-seed it is necessary that it should be broken up and cropped only two years. Hence the necessity for cultivating and the loss incurred thereon. As sheep and cattle-farming is the only way one can obtain any return at all, I have grown wheat, which averaged only nine bushels to the acre, and some I had to set fire to as not worth reaping owing to red rust, catterpillars, blight, plagues, &c., which are not noticed in Colonel Crawford's pamphlet. Your correspondent "Anglo-Indian," having given a brief statement of the cost of reclaiming 160 acres with seed and other items, which, I suppose, he will hereafter discover as £1,000, let us see what one of those 320 acre allotment in Castra has at present cost the owners:—

Three hundred and twenty acres (rated ten pounds)	384	0	0
Survey fee	13	15	0
Survey and map of Castra	4	0	0
Letter of attorney, grant, deed, &c.	1	8	0
Agent's commission, 8 years at 6 pence per acre	64	0	0
Cash donation in lieu of 1-6th of land for church school, &c.	20	0	0
Road and police rates, 8 years	7	0	0
Property-tax, current year, 9 pence, not included
Total	£494	3	0

Or nearly £1-11 per acre. Add to this loss by exchange, discount, &c. The total amount, if invested at compound interest among the last eight years, would go a long way towards purchasing a very nice property in any of the settled districts of Tasmania. What is the present value of one of those 320 acre allotments in the Castra settlement? Land equally as good and quite as near a market can be purchased from the government at £1 per acre. If on credit, by having one-fifth added and 11 years to pay this sum is the full value of any of the Castra properties at present if placed in the market. Had the whole of the gentlemen who have taken land in the Castra settlement come there in a body, each in possession of £1,000 in cash as well as a pension, in the course of ten years they would have spent their cash and pension, and would find that their united profits would not equal the six pounds per acre per annum paid as commission to the founder of this settlement during the last eight years.

If one of those farms was rough-cleared, that is, scrubbed, burnt off, picked up to 18 inches, a portion of it laid down in grass and clover-seed, farm buildings put up, fenced, stocked, &c., in fact in working order at a cost of about £10 per acre, say £3,300, and then handed over as a present to an Indian with a young family and without a pension, or any income from other sources, the recipient would find himself in possession of a farm that would take at least twenty years to clear the timber off it, which he would find on the ground, and standing; and to effect this he should be a sturdy workman and make others work also. That the profits realised from the farm during this time would have to be spent upon it, leaving him very little for education or any of the comforts or luxuries necessary for a gentleman or his family; and in the course of time the farm would have to be devided amongst his sons: he could make no other provisions for them.

The Castra settlement is improperly designated: it ought to have been called the "Tasmanian Back Bay Reclamation Society." Back Bay as well as Castra, no doubt, could be made something of, provided sufficient time and money be spent upon them. The difficulties which beset a settler on the forest lands of this colony is something incredible; to form any estimate of the expense and labour is simply impossible. There is no place on the face of the globe where a man could sooner spend a fortune in obtaining a living than in clearing forest-land in Tasmania, and more laborious and rougher life no man could select than burning and clearing timber for all the days of his life. There are farmers in this district, hardworking, practical men, who, as well as their families, have been fifteen, eighteen, and twenty years (they will tell you) "bursting and mauling" at this timber. Some of them have one, two, three and four hundred acres cleared and under crop, and, if you like, they will inform you, and you can see for yourself, that they can hardly make ends meet. Could they make a profit of ten shillings per acre on their land after supporting themselves: they would do well. Could an Indian realise one half the prices which he would be but hope, that is, from £2 to £3 per acre, farming in this colony, with a climate unsurpassed anywhere, would be as pleasant a life as one could adopt, but when it comes to hard work, and nothing for your trouble, it is another matter.

I hope this letter will not prevent any intending immigrant from coming to this country, and would say to those who are thinking of making Tasmania their future home, read "Anglo-Indian's" sensible letter and take his advice anent selecting, &c. There is plenty of room in Tasmania with land in abundance, but mind forest alotments, at least until you see them. On arrival you will be entitled to select free 30 acres for self, 20 for your wife, and 10 for each child. You will find this quantity a pretty hard nut to crack if you want to make anything of it. Bring your money with you. Don't send it to anyone, or allow other people to spend it for you. Don't be in a hurry. When you come take time and have a look at things. On the N. W. Coast of Tasmania there are several Anglo-Indians; some of them will give you some advice should you get amongst them.
